Mr Jon Duschinsky is one of the world’s leading social innovators and entrepreneurs. He believes passionately that today’s consumers will only support those brands and companies who stand for something they care about. And companies that ignore this do so at their peril.

“There is a new business reality in our post-digital, watched-and-watcher world: you need to give people something to belong it, own, align with, share and get excited about. You can have the best products in the world, but if people don’t care then you are doomed to failure”.

Duschinsky has teamed up with some of the best creative minds in the world to create The Conversation Farm, a unique communications agency based in Toronto and London that helps companies move from function to purpose. They make their clients stand for something meaningful and then build movements around them to exponentially increase profitability and impact.

Duschinsky doesn’t just advise others on how to achieve profitability through social engagement, he has also founded a range of innovative and exciting start-ups, most recently creating Oreka Solutions, an incubator for new sustainable technologies that can effect transformational change. He is also the co-founder of AgriProtein North America, a groundbreaking technology company that is turning waste into food and helping start a “protein revolution” to feed the extra 2 billion people that will be on this planet by 2050. AgriProtein is in the process of creating the largest farming operation on the planet.

Duschinsky works with Fortune 500 companies, start-ups as well as governments and causes. He was one of the team behind the Ice Bucket Challenge that raised over $100m to cure ALS.

Recently voted the world’s second most powerful communicator in social innovation, second only to Bill Clinton, his powerful, game-changing message has received global recognition and the opportunity to share speaking platforms with leaders such as Mikhail Gorbachev, Kofi Annan & Steve Wozniak. Duschinsky is the author of two books, “Philanthropy in a Flat World” (2008) and “(me)volution” (2012). He is working on his third book which has the working title ‘How to change the world by talking about it’.

Mr Patrick Teng’s involvement in the forex markets goes back more than 30 years. With his vast experience and leadership, Six Capital has moved away from the traditional company value creation model and evolved into SIXCAP, a multifaced global enterprise designed to generate societal impact through businesses and initiatives that create jobs and new wealth for stakeholders and participants alike.

Most recently, in January, 2017, SIXCAP presented at the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland (WEF @ Davos) and received widespread recognition for its work on NusaPhone to 25 million farmers. The presentation also involved digital transformation, technological innovations and investment of the future.

SIXCAP specialises in the field of financial technologies and machine learning bringing wealth and health to the bottom of the pyramid, SIXCAP is pioneering new approaches to social financing that are redefining the world economy.
Glen Francis has over 20 years of technology experience and has served on a number of executive boards and forums. Glen enjoys creativity and innovation, and is well respected by his peers in the industry. He is the current President for IDeationEdgeAsia and CIO Academy Asia. Glen serves on two institutes of higher learning as their technology board adviser, was Vice President for IT Management Association. He mentors startup companies and he serves as one of the judges for MIT’s EmTech Innovators under 35.

In his most recent appointment, Glen was the Group CIO for Global Logistic Properties Limited (“GLP”), responsible for Technology across the organisation’s global operations across 118 cities. GLP is listed on the Singapore Exchange with a market capitalisation of approximately US$10 billion. He joined GLP shortly after their listing in Singapore, and helped setup their technology platforms, security framework, data center, enterprise applications, PMO, ITMO, and M&A tech due diligence for expansion and joint ventures.

Before joining GLP, he was the Regional Head of IS, Asia Pacific for RS Components Pte Ltd (“RS”). He was part of the Global IS executive management team representing the Asia Pacific Business, reporting to Group Headquarters located in the United Kingdom. He was involved in the consolidation of the technology group regionally across Asia Pacific, and later globally with the UK operations. Glen was involved in helping to transform RS’s traditional business to one that is eCommerce.

Prior to RS, Glen worked at Aon as their Regional Director for Asia Pacific, leading the development of a newly formed corporate initiative called Revenue Engine. He has championed many transformational initiatives within the organisation across different countries, functions and companies. He worked for the first 5 years as their head for eBusiness and IT in Asia Pacific before being promoted to Regional Director for Revenue Engine.

Glen also worked in Intel/Xircom project leading multi-million-dollar digital transformation project across Asia Pacific.

SIXCAP specialises in the field of financial technologies and machine learning bringing wealth and health to the bottom of the pyramid, SIXCAP is pioneering new approaches to social financing that are redefining the world economy.